

The Goblin's Lair

A short adventure for 4-6 characters of levels 1-3

Introduction

Deep in the Thornwood Forest lies an ancient cave system, now home to a band of goblins led by their cunning boss, Snaggle. The goblins have been raiding nearby farms, and the local village has posted a bounty for anyone brave enough to clear them out.

The path through the forest grows darker as ancient oaks crowd overhead. Ahead, you spot a rocky hillside with a yawning cave mouth. Bones litter the ground near the entrance, and the stench of unwashed goblin wafts from within.

Area 1: Cave Entrance

The entrance is ten feet wide and slopes gently downward. Two goblin sentries hide behind rocks just inside, watching for intruders.

name: Goblin hp: 1-1 ac: 6 [13] speed: 40'
traits:

- Infravision. 60' range. actions:
- Weapon. 1d6 damage. saving throws:

Area 2: The Main Chamber

The tunnel opens into a large cavern lit by a smoky fire pit in the center. Here, the goblin boss holds court with his minions.

West Side

The western wall has several crude bedrolls and a pile of stolen goods: farming tools, a few coins, and some rotting food.

East Side

The eastern wall features a raised platform where the goblin boss sits on a makeshift throne of bones and leather.

The Goblin Boss

Snaggle is cunning for a goblin. He wears a battered chain shirt taken from a fallen adventurer and wields a shortsword with surprising skill.
